WHY MOVE ONLINE?

Facilitate the Application - The Web forms that applicants complete are designed to meet the grantmaker's needs, and ensure that all the desired information is provided.

End the Paper Chase for the - After the application deadline, grantmakers can use their E-Grants system for a myriad of tasks, including assigning and distributing applications electronically to reviewers.

Communication - In all cases, funders noted that grantees were far more likely to submit progress reports in a timely fashion and keep their professional and organizational profiles updated when they could do so electronically.

Continuous Program - A good E-Grants solution will allow easy manipulation of the data to generate a wide variety of reports used for both assessment and analysis of applicants and awardees.

Real Benefits - E-Grants solutions have a plethora of benefits including increased productivity and effective administration of grants but most of all, the applicants have better access, improved communication, and potentially faster turnaround times for decisions.
